Dear David,

Herewith is the review to be published in Literary gazette. Sorry to be a bit late, but I happened to have 6 ribs broken. It took place not in a drinking fight with a dagger, but in a wine shop after we bought scotch. Found myself in a privileged former Party hospital on the bed where our PM Bulganin was dying (remember captain Crabb?). Long ago I was happy at his dacha, not alone in his bed, cuts of paintings from the Ogonek - journal on the walls (modesty of a Bolshevik). Now at home, convalescent. Best to Jane. Yours ML

P.S. You have a female or male translator robot?
